BELLINGHAM, Washington (December 10th, 2019) - Mason Meeker is graduating from Western Washington University this winter. He will receive his degree with a major in marketing, and a minor in psychology.

After receiving his degree, Mason will be ready to venture into the world of digital marketing. He has expressed large interest in content creation, social media marketing, and big data. Mason has expressed specific interest in working in the music industry. One of his professors stated, "Mason was a good student. He always worked hard and was willing to learn."

Along with attending school, Mason spent time working a full time position as a marketing specialist for Skagit County Parks, Recreation, and Fair. He spends his free time producing music and DJing. Learning to make music has fueled his passion for the music industry. He has goals of working on a marketing team for a record label, or a company that puts on music events. When asked, Mason told us, "I feel like my background in both marketing and psychology will be beneficial in my future endeavors.
